FEBRUARY 12, 1767. THE NUMBER 821.

VIRGINIA GAZETTE.

With the lateſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

PARIS, November 7.

THE affair of the Manila ranſom is not yet ſettled. The Engliſh Miniſtry, it is ſaid, will allow no more than 1,300,000 piaſters by way of ſatisfaction for the plunder committed after the town had capitulated, and refuſes to refer it to the judgment of the King of Pruſſia, whom the Spaniſh Miniſtry propoſe as mediator.

MADRID, October 22. They write from Madrid that not only the Rector of the Jeſuits of Sarragoſſa, and 5 of his brethren, have been arreſted and ſent to priſon, but that all the members of that community have met with the ſame fate.

ROME, October 18. The paper war here is carried on with as much vehemence as ever between the Jeſuits and their adverſaries, which laſt, believe me, are neither weak nor deſpicable; and moreover that his Holineſs and his Court are under no ſmall trepidation for the intereſts of his dear children in Spain, leſt that Court ſhould follow the examples of the Courts of France and Portugal, for it is certain ſome unlucky ſteps are already taken in Spain, which carry very much that appearance; and as to the young Chevalier De St. George, whom I have mentioned in ſome of my former letters ſince my arrival here, his chief reſidence is ſtill at Albano, where he takes the diverſions of the ſeaſon with his attendants, which I am aſſured conſiſt of three Britiſh Gentlemen and his Secretary, all Proteſtants, which I preſume will afford the bigots here but little pleaſure, nor will it ſtrengthen his intereſt in the Pope's Court, which it is believed he has ſenſe enough to deſpiſe, though it be generally thought his finances are low enough.

STOCKHOLM. Nov. 4. The Princeſs Royal has made her publick entry this morning, and the marriage ceremony is to be performed at 7 o'clock this evening in the Chapel Royal.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 11. Her Daniſh Majeſty made her publick entry into this capital on Saturday the 8th inſtant, and on the evening of the ſame day the Royal nuptials were ſolemnized in the chapel of Chriſtianſburg. As every body ſeemed to vie in their deſire of teſtifying the ſatisfaction this happy union afforded them, the ſplendour of the entry was as great as can well be ſuppoſed. The Court has continued in gala ever ſince, and propoſes doing ſo to the end of the week, during which time the teſtivities will laſt.

LONDON.

Nov. 6. This day the Right Hon. Lord Camden, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, went in grand proceſſion, attended by ſeveral of the great Officers of State, the Judges, &c. &c. from his houſe in Lincoln's Inn Fields to Weſtminſter Hall, and opened the Court wherein his Lordſhip ſo worthily preſides.

Nov. 26. A plan for a new town is already drawn, which is to conſiſt of fifteen hundred houſes, built of an equal height, and in the moſt regular manner. This town is to be built on the left of Sooter's hill in Kent, in a circular form, with a noble aſſembly room in the middle, and is to be called New Plumſtead; and, when finiſhed, it is ſuppoſed will be the moſt beautiful thing of its kind in Europe, as it commands a moſt delightful proſpect for many miles over the river Thames, and ſprings of water are even with the ground.

The Eagle, Sugars, from Dublin to Parkgate, with General Stanwix and family, and other paſſengers, is ſuppoſed to be loſt.

The Lords Juſtices of Ireland iſſued a proclamation the [illegible]d ult. in conſequence of a memorial from the Mayor, Sheriffs, and Common Council of the city of Corke, repreſenting, "That ſeveral large quantities of potatoes have been lately ſhipped in the port of Corke for foreign parts, whereby the price of potatoes in that city had been greatly advanced, and that they have ſtrong reaſons to imagine that there will be orders for ſhipping from that kingdom ſuch quantities of potatoes, as will diſtreſs the poor thereof in the higheſt degree; and that by the great failure in the growth of wheat, barley, and oats, in that kingdom this year, the lower claſs of people muſt receive their principal ſupport the enſuing winter, ſpring, and ſummer, from the potatoes of the produce of this year." In order to prevent the diſtreſs which may be apprehended to the poorer ſort of people of that kingdom, by the exportation of potatoes, they do ſtrictly prohibit and forbid the exportation of potatoes out of all the ports in the kingdom.

Extract of a letter from a Gentleman in Waterford to his friend in Dublin, dated October 18.

"As I was on a party of pleaſure, with ſome friends going to Paſſage, the wind blowing hard at S. S. W. we perceived a large Whitehaven veſſel, with her ſails furled, and ſeemingly in diſtreſs; and perceiving no body on board we made up to her and hailed her, but receiving no anſwer, we ventured to go on board, where we found a parcel of poor women lying in a fever, quite delirious, and not able to give any account of themſelves, whom we relieved as well as we could, with what neceſſaries our little veſſel afforded.

"Upon ſearching further, we found the cocket of the veſſel, which diſcovered her to be a tranſport ſhip, Capt. Ford commander, bound for Eaſt Florida from Dublin, with 150 convicts on board. By all appearances, we ſuppoſe the hands have been murdered and thrown overboard, as we found on board their compaſs, quadrant, clothes, &c.

"Upon coming into harbour, we gave notice of it to the officers of the cuſtom-houſe, who immediately went and brought her in here."

An expreſs arrived at Dublin, on the 30th of October, with the melancholy confirmation of the murder of Capt. Ford, and his whole ſhip's company by the convicts: In the night time they had found means to knock off their chains, ſurpriſed the Captain and crew, threw them over board, and then making for the ſhore, got clear off before any diſcovery was made. Some of them, however, have been ſince apprehended, and committed to Dublin gaol.

Extract of a letter from Italy, dated October 30.

"I hinted to you, in my laſt, my intentions of making a tour to Corſica: I have ſince put them into execution. I had a moſt agreeable journey, and paſſed eight days at Corte with General Paoli. This is really the moſt extraordinary perſon I ever met with; he is above all praiſe, his perſon is very graceful, and his addreſs extremely polite. He is learned in all the ancient and modern languages, has a fund of knowledge that would aſtoniſh you, and ſo happy a memory that you cannot quote any paſſage out of any writer of reputation which he is not able to go on with. He has ſuffered much in his health by the vaſt fatigue and anxiety which he has undergone, and he mentioned to me that he can feel a ſenſible decay in his faculties. However, he is of ſo ſuperiour a claſs that I am perſuaded you would be charmed with the knowledge of him. Corte is the centre of the iſland, amongſt almoſt impaſſable mountains, and has much the air of an old Grecian town."

Nov. 29. Yeſterday the Duke of Portland reſigned his place as Lord Chamberlain of his Majeſty's Houſehold.

The Earl of Scarborough alſo reſigned his place of Cofferer of his Majeſty's Houſehold, and Deputy Earl Marſhal of England. As did Lord Monſon his place of Lord Chief Juſtice in Eyre of his Majeſty's foreſts ſouth of Trent.

We hear that on Tueſday and Wedneſday a deputation of Millers, Mealmen, &c. waited on the principal Nobility and Gentry in the Adminiſtration, with a memorial, praying to have the ſame bounty allowed on flower as on wheat, to the great benefit of the manufacturers of this nation; when they were received with that condeſcenſion and attention which this worthy Adminiſtration have ever ſhown to the manufactures of Great Britain.

Yeſterday the Duke of York had a numerous and ſplendid levee at his houſe in Pallmall, where it is ſaid two illuſtrious foreigners, lately arrived at this Court, attended.

We hear that the Adminiſtration, which will ſoon be altered by a coalition, will be formed on a more probable permanent plan than has ſubſiſted for many years paſt, and which will conſiſt of Noblemen and Gentlemen of the moſt diſtinguiſhed rank, fortune, and abilities, in the kingdom; and, to add luſtre and dignity to their meaſures, we are told they will be all volunteers, and not accept of any ſalary or penſion for their ſervices, and that none will be admitted but on thoſe conditions.

It is ſtrongly whiſpered that another change will ſoon happen in one of the higheſt departments of the law.

Lord Barrington retires with an Engliſh Peerage, Colonel Barre ſucceeds as Secretary at War, Mr. Rigby is re-appointed Vice Treaſurer of Ireland, and near twenty changes are expected, in order the better to forward the ſo much expected coalition.

It is ſaid that a noble Lord has given it as his opinion that the moſt proper method of treating with Portugal, on the ſubject of our trade with that Crown, would be, to add dignity to the negotiation, by having a ſmall Engliſh ſquadron in the Tagus.

We hear that Commodore Byron, in his voyage to the South Seas, actually formed and left a ſmall ſettlement on an uninhabited iſland ninety leagues to the weſtward of the continent of America, where there is a capacious harbour, a fertile ſoil, and a moderate climate.

It is ſaid that the revenue ariſing to the kingdom from impoſts on the Eaſt India trade is eſtimated, upon an average, at a clear million ſterling a year; ſo that when the Company have been ſupported upon any occaſion at the publick expenſe, they have amply paid for the favour of protection.

The marriage lately ſolemnized between two noble perſonages will, it is ſtrongly affirmed, be productive of a ſuit at law, of ſo extraordinary a nature as to attract, in the higheſt degree, the attention of the whole nation; owing, we hear, to a moſt unexampled clauſe in the will of his Lordſhip's father, deceaſed.

This day's mail brings an account from Liſbon, dated October 24th, of great damage having been done to the vines, olive trees, grain, &c. by rains, which laſted three weeks inceſſantly, attended with ſtorms and hurricanes.

They write from Genoa that the Senate had received advice of ſeveral hundred barrels of gunpowder, thirty field pieces of braſs, and a great number of firelocks, having lately been landed in the gulf of Ajaccio by a Dutch veſſel, for the ſervice of Paſchal Paoli.

Dec. 2. Moſt, if not all, of the reſignations mentioned in the publick papers, have been made, as perhaps ſome more will be; but we are well aſſured that the pretended offers made of thoſe employments to others, and their rejections of thoſe offers, are impertinent and groundleſs falſehoods, and of courſe impoſitions on the publick.

It is ſaid that the attention of the Miniſtry will be employed principally this ſeſſion in regulating for the future the price of corn and proviſions, and for preventing the monopolizing and engroſſing thoſe neceſſaries of life.

WILLIAMSBURG, February 12.

The Randolph, Captain Walker, in ſix weeks from London, is arrived in James river. We learn from letters by ſaid veſſel that the clauſe in the act of Parliament, made laſt ſeſſion, by which non-enumerated goods, exported from the Britiſh colonies in America, are prohibited from being landed at any port of Europe to the northward of Cape Finiſterre, except in Great Britain, is to be amended this preſent ſeſſion, by including Ireland, which through miſtake was omitted in the act.

☞ The piece ſigned PHILANTHROPOS is come to hand, and will have a place in our next.

To Mr. RIND, Printer of the VIRGINIA GAZETTE ſaid to be publiſhed by authority.

SIR,

SEVERAL of your readers are very ſolicitous to know what authority you have for publiſhing a paper now, more than formerly. Some, I ſuppoſe of the moſt intelligent, allege that becauſe you have had the good fortune (for certainly you cannot aſcribe it to any thing elſe) to be choſen Publick Printer, that that gives you an excluſive privilege. If this was really ſo, the arrogating your ſuperb title might be ſomewhat excuſable; but others ſay this is ſo far from being the caſe that any one who has a mind to publiſh a Virginia Gazette may uſe the ſame title, with equal propriety. Others, again, are of opinion that you have obtained a patent. As for my own part, I cannot pretend to ſay any thing of the matter; nor indeed do I think you are accountable, to the generality of your readers, for the motives that influenced your conduct. But, if you think proper, you may give this a place in your next, as well as condeſcend to ſatisfy the publick, otherwiſe it will be underſtood as a refuſal. I am, influenced by no party,

Your humble ſervant,

A MAN of PRINCIPLE.

NORFOLK, Jan. 28, 1767.

Meſſ. PURDIE & DIXON.

GENTLEMEN,

BE pleaſed to give the following relation of facts a place in your next gazette, and oblige

Your humble ſervant,

A. GORDON.

NORFOLK borough, Feb. 6, 1767.

ON the 20th of December laſt one RALPH INMAN, an inhabitant of this place, a man of a general bad character, was, at my complaint, brought by warrant before Mr. John Hutchings, Jun. on ſuſpicion of felony, who, after examining of evidence, committed ſaid Inman, until he ſhould be liberated by due courſe of law, for feloniouſly ſtealing one heifer, value three pounds, the property of Alexander Gordon, or ſome other perſon.

Two or three days afterwards, the ſaid Magiſtrate admitted the priſoner to bail; which giving me reaſon to apprehend myſelf and family in danger from the malice of a perſon of ſo vile a character, I obtained a peace warrant from Colonel Robert Tucker, which was no ſooner ſerved upon him than he was again bailed by his friend Maximilian Calvert, with whom it ſeems he has connexions. And both before and after ſaid bailment Inman and his friends went about inſulting and intimidating the evidence for the Crown, in a manner truly alarming.

On the 27th of December he was committed by an Examining Court, to be ſent to Williamſburg for further trial.
